Question: Do you think people who ride bicycles should be made to wear helmets in Japan? Why or why not?

第4問 Complete the following two conversations by filling the blank lines with appropriate responses. The length of your answer does not necessarily have to match the length of each line.

Conversation A

Ali: It's so hot today, isn't it? Actually, I've been learning about climate change in one of my classes. It seems to be affecting the whole world.

Bob: ⁽¹⁾ _____ . Can you explain it to me?

Ali: Sure! Climate change means the Earth's temperature is becoming warmer because of pollution. It's causing a lot of problems like rising sea levels and more extreme weather.

Bob: Well, that's a bit scary! ⁽²⁾ _____ ?

Ali: There are a number of things everyone can do. We can start by using less energy, like turning off lights when we don't need them, and not having the TV on all the time.

Bob: That makes sense. What else can we do?

Ali: ⁽³⁾ _____ . And it's also a good idea to recycle as much as we can, like paper, plastic, and cans.

Bob: It sounds like a big problem, and individual actions might not be enough. Do you think our government should be doing something about it?

Ali: ⁽⁴⁾ _____ .

Bob: Yeah, I agree with that idea!

Conversation B

Mike: Amy, I seem to remember that you had cats at home. Is that true?

Amy: Yes, we've always had cats since I was young. Why do you ask?

Mike: There is an abandoned cat in my neighborhood that's really friendly, and I'm thinking of adopting him. But I've never done that before.

(1) _____?

Amy: Well, once you get his trust, then you can catch him and bring him inside. Also, take him for a health checkup.

Mike: _____?

(2)

Amy: It's just to check for basic health issues, like sickness and broken bones.

Mike: Sounds like a good idea.

Amy: Once you keep him inside, you can expect him to cry for a long time, asking to go outside, but eventually he'll give up and enjoy indoor life.

Mike: _____?

(3)

Amy: Only the obvious things — a water bowl, a food bowl, and a litter box. And probably a scratching post, to prevent him from scratching your furniture when his claws feel itchy.

Mike: I've heard that some cats never adjust to staying indoors.

Amy: (4) _____. But all of our cats have adjusted without problems.
